

GUEST EDITORIAL MESSAGE

TODAY: INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENT

In the aegis of Progressive Sustainable Developers Nepal, the International Journal of Environment (IJE) essentially provides a global platform toward the enlightenment of environmental resilience and sustainable development. In the current scenario with exploding population the natural resources is going to detrimental condition. Hence, in this arena the day by day conservation of environmental assets is growing challenge and that can be tackled only by integrating the eco-friendly way to address the problem of pollution and conservation of natural resources. Moreover the adoption of environmental-efficient tree plantation based emerging technologies like dendroremediation,

“.....I came to know about IJE through Internet and joined as reviewer on 7th Jan 2014. IJE provided me chance to review the papers approximately 10, I feel happy to the reviewing work and interested to do so on 24X7.....”

Anil Kumar Shankhwar

helps to resolve the environmental problems namely air, water and soil pollution and curtail down the CO₂ emission. It is gratified that since last two years, IJE joined hands to the scientific world with internationally recognized research intermingled with environmental issues to concerned people. The annals of these researches can be freely accessed on the IJE archive of Nepal Journals OnLine \(NepJOL\) administered by the International Network for the Availability of Scientific Publications (INASP), United Kingdom.

In the current issue (Vol 4 Iss 3) of the journal portrayed into Editorial, Research Papers, Review Papers and Short Communication section. Under the wide array of experiences of Editor-in-Chief of Journal Govinda Bhandari, the IJE raised the voice of researcher predominantly from world and Nepal itself as well. The IJE editorial board critically reviews every manuscript before publication. The rigorous double blind review process proclaims short time frame.

I endorsed this journal for publishing high-quality research papers and as Manuscript Editor, I will do every efforts to fulfill all the responsibility. At this journey on the behalf of editorial board member and on my personnel, I would like to acknowledge the valuable contributions of the authors, reviewers, editors, advisory members and members of PSD-Nepal family for making the efforts successful to produce this issue. Finally, I am hopeful and committed for providing explicitly easy, informative and significant research articles to its readers. The editorial board will be highly happy to incorporate invaluable comments and suggestions for continuous improvement in future too. A huge thank is due to all concerned concerted people for help and support.

Anil Kumar Shankhwar

Guest Faculty, Gautam Buddha University, Yamuna Expressway, Gr. Noida, Gautam Buddh Nagar, (UP) India- 201308

Email: oxeegen@gmail.com; dranilshankhwar@gmail.com