

Editorial Note ●

We extend our acknowledgement to our benevolent readers on the occasion of the successful completion of "AMC JOURNAL (Dhangadhi)" research publication of Research Management Cell (RMC), Aishwarya Multiple Campus (AMC), Dhangadhi, Kailali. The RMC of Aishwarya Multiple Campus has been able to successfully publish the sixth volume of the year 2025. It serves the purpose of readers who are interested in contemporary knowledge of natural and social sciences.

Encouraging support of our benevolent readers, scholars, academicians, and members of the advisory board inspired us to come up with this issue of the journal on time. It contains 9 articles. This journal gives priority to the research work or project work conducted by teachers and students. Its main aim is to inspire the research scholars, teachers and students of the campus to write something about what they do, feel, and observe by publishing these activities of teachers as well as students in order to improve teaching and learning, and to enhance analytical and research skills.

We collected all articles from scholars of different fields and sent these articles to related experts for blind peer review. The valuable suggestions/feedback obtained from the experts were sent to the respective writers to make necessary corrections. We didn't disclose the identities of the reviewers and authors to each other to maintain its validity and standard. Finally, the articles were compiled, edited and sent for publication. This whole work would not have been possible without the sincere effort of the members of the publication committee (Research Department), peer review team, editorial board, and advisory board. Long-time efforts and the inspiration of these committees, as well as benevolent creditors, have made it possible to bring this issue into its present form. Therefore, we are always indebted to all learned scholars who have contributed their papers to publish this issue in time and in a valuable form. We also extend our gratitude to the advisory board and editorial board for their considerable assistance and sincere guidelines.

Despite sincere efforts, the chance of human error cannot be avoided. Therefore, we would also like to take full responsibility for any kind of deficiency presented in the editorial aspect of this issue. Lastly, we expect creative comments and suggestions from learned scholars and readers for the forthcoming issue.
