As an intellectual necessity in the ever-evolving landscape of academia, the Humanities and Social Sciences Journal Volume 15, Numbers 1-2, a peer-reviewed open-access journal indexed in NepJOL, is a platform for intellectual and academic engagement for scholars working in the fields of humanities and social sciences.

Knowledge is a cornerstone of human progress. The pursuit of knowledge is a journey that grows on diversity in this multicultural, transnational and globalized world. This journal embraces diversity and provides a platform to explore and understand the multifaceted dimensions of the human experience. As scholars, it is our responsibility to foster and inclusive scholarship that values different perspectives, voices and experiences, and reflects the true diversity of the world by opening up new opportunities within academic discourse. Our academic endeavor creates learning environment and celebrates diverse viewpoints by enhancing and empowering the learners. We expect that they think critically and contribute meaningfully to the academic community.

This journal accepts scholarly research articles on diverse aspects of humanities and social sciences prevalent in Nepal and abroad. The strength of this journal is its interdisciplinary and bilingual in nature. Nothing seems so exciting but disheartening than bringing out a journal of this nature. However, the publication of this journal has been possible because of unwavering commitment of the editors.

Views and opinions expressed by the authors are their own and do not necessarily reflect the view of editors and publisher. Authors may not republish of a piece once it has been published in this journal.

Finally, we encourage and support its writers, researchers and readers to study, research and develop their expertise in quality in their own subjects. We would like to express our thanks to writers, publisher, designer and many others for their support in bringing out this volume in this form. We always welcome creative and constructive criticisms from the readers.
