Message from the Vice Chancellor

The research and creative writing papers on health issues not only discourage People from taking tobacco, alcohol, and drugs but also make them aware of the significance of the physical exercise, nutrition, immunization, and even the environmental health. People are keen to follow the health issues more seriously after the emergence of COVID-19 pandemic globally.

It gives me an immense pleasure to know that Faculty of Medical & Allied Sciences is publishing an academic and research-based journal in June, 2022. I congratulate the Research and Publication Committee of the faculty for their incredible efforts.

I expect that the deliberate articles, research and creative papers published in the journal will stand as the useful references for the academic and non-academic readers of the journal.

I thank all the writers for their precious contributions.

I wish the journal team all the best for similar works in the future.

Prof. Yadav Raj Koirala Ph.D.
Vice Chancellor
